Introduction

The rich tradition and religious culture of India are reflected in the expression of folk art. The art and craft of India are very simple and ethnic, and yet colorful and vibrant enough to express about the rich heritage of the country. Indian arts and crafts have great demand in both national and international market because of their traditional aesthetic sensibility and authenticity.

Madhubani district of North Bihar is the heart of Mithila where arts and crafts have reached their footsteps of excellence. Painting is more than an art, hope and aspirations for the people. It is the expression of day-to-day experiences and beliefs. Madhubani paintings are mostly based on religion and mythology and are accomplished by generations of skilled artists. The Indian folk arts play an important role in creating new designs. Increasing demands of consumers require modification in the fashion industry with respect to design, color, style, and technique

During social and religious festival, the women of Mithila used to decorate the walls and floors of their houses in a very simple manner. These paintings were not only aesthetically appreciated but also won critical acclaim.

Before 1930, the Madhubani paintings were not known to people who lived outside the Madhubani region. But in 1934, the city of Bihar experienced a major earthquake, and British officer William G. Archer of the Madhubani area noticed these unique arts on the damaged walls of Madhubani during his inspection. He admired Indian art and culture and introduced this unique art to the people that reside outside Madhubani.

Madhubani (Bihar)

Madhubani is a town with municipality in Madhubani district in the Indian state of Bihar. It is the district headquarters. It lies 26 km northeast of Darbhanga town and was part of the erstwhile 'Bettiah Raj. Internal disputes and family quarrels divided the Bettiah Raj in course of time. The Madhuban Raj in Madhubani was created as a consequence. The word "Madhuban" means "forest of honey" from which Madhubani is derived, but sometimes it is also known as "madhu"+"vaani", meaning "sweet" "voice/language". Madhubani is the cultural heart of Mithilanchal, being the birthplace of many literary people and home to Madhubani. It is said to be that Madhubani is the world's second city who adopted democracy.

Geography

Madhubani Town is located at 26.37°N 86.08°E. It has an average elevation of 56 metres (183 feet).

Demographics

As of 2001 India census, Madhubani Town had a population of 166,285. Males constitute 53% of the population and females 47%. Madhubani Town has an average literacy rate of 60%, just above the national average of 59.5%: male literacy is 67%, and female literacy is 53%. In Madhubani Town, 16% of the population is under 6 years of age.

About The Craft

The crafts of Madhubani are popular across the country. The many interesting crafts of Madhubani Painting, The Madhubani Painting and Craft Grass are most famous, which are mostly practiced in the region of Mithila. These paintings are painted during weddings and festivals as these are regarded as auspicious. These paintings mostly depict religious subjects like marriages of god and goddesses. Other crafts like Lakh bangles of Muzaffarpur are very famous.

Madhubani Painting art or Mithila art) is practiced in the Mithila region of India and Nepal. Painting is done with fingers, twigs, brushes, nib-pens, and matchsticks, using natural dyes and pigments, and is characterised by eye-catching geometrical patterns. There is ritual content for particular occasions, such as birth or marriage, and festivals, such as Holi, Surya Shasti, Kali Puja, Upanayana, Durga Puja.

Origins

Madhubani Painting/Mithila painting was traditionally created by the women of various communities in Mithila region of India and Nepal. It originated from Madhubani Painting district of Mithila region of Bihar, and , it is popularly called Mithila painting or Madhubani Painting painting. Madhubani Painting is also a major export centre of these paintings. This painting as a form of wall art was practiced widely throughout the region; the more recent development of painting on paper and canvas mainly originated among the villages around Madhubani, and it is these latter developments led to the name Madhubani Painting art being

A close-up photograph of a traditional Indian saree with a vibrant, multi-colored geometric and floral pattern. The colors include red, orange, yellow, green, blue, and pink. A white circular overlay with a decorative lace-like border is centered on the image. The word "Saree" is written in a bold, red, sans-serif font within this circle. The background shows the intricate details of the saree's border and body patterns.

A vibrant silk saree is displayed in a shop. The saree features a wide border with a colorful floral and geometric pattern. The main body of the saree is a light beige color, and it is adorned with a large, detailed Madhubani painting of a man and a woman in traditional attire. The painting is set within a rectangular frame. The saree is draped over a wooden stand, and its pleated end hangs down. In the background, other colorful fabrics and a rack of wooden hangers are visible.
